

Project RoadRunner

Discover Project Roadrunner, the eco-friendly semi-trucks that use trolley lines to travel along highways. With onboard battery capabilities, they're leading the way to a sustainable future. Join us now and stay updated on our progress.

01

What things changed?

Things are easier said than done. I had a great idea for this project which, sadly, wasn't achievable. At first I was bummed out that I won't be able to go above and beyond on my project but then I learned the importance of not giving up at the start and pushing through.

02

Will I continue working on this idea?

Next year, I plan on creating an even better model which includes more complicated electronics and maybe even involves a raspberry pi computer.

03

What will I remind myself?

I would remind myself to start working on the project earlier instead of procrastinating it till the last couple of weeks. It's always better to be ahead than behind.

04

Passing on knowlegde

Never think your project isn't good enough or doesn't pass some standard. Your project is uniquely special in its own way.