Textbook Marketplace 2.0

Right now, the official SHC solution for student-to-student book sales is a Schoology group that has since taken on the roles of student message board and school-wide lost and found. This system is functional, but only barely. Textbook Marketplace 2.0 is designed to be a dedicated platform for SHC students to buy books from other SHC students, aiming to end the scourge of students showing up to class with the wrong book or no book at all.

Easily Searchable

Forget combing through hundreds of posts to find one selling books only to realize that they don't have the right book for your class. Or they have the wrong edition, or they took a class with slightly different books than you did and thus don't have everything available.

Designed Intuitively

Schoology is not intuitive. Some go as far as calling it "decidedly anti-user," in it's design. Rather than a bulky, facebook-inspired learning management website co-opted into a textbook exchange, I built this from the ground up with textbook sales in mind. It's streamlined, efficient, and effective.

ISBN Matching

Say goodbye to buying the wrong book for your class. All of the specific data from the book list is integrated into the platform. You'll show up to class with the correct edition or version, guaranteed.

By Bill Smith '25